Conference Overview:

We are delighted to announce the details of the Ferro-Alloys.com famous chain series events of "The 7th Asia Pacific Steel & Ferro-Alloys International Conference", which is to be held in beautiful Macau, China on 05-07 March 2019.

The year 2019 is already considering as a threat to the global steel industry. There is no offence that China is the world's biggest producer and consumer of steel, and is also a large investor into foreign-direct investment in many countries. Such as China is a good overall metric to watch for the overall steel market worldwide, in spite of the U.S. not engaging in much direct steel trade with China.

It was projected that the global steel demand would reach 1657.9 MT in the year 2018, 3.9% increased y.o.y 2017. It is forecasted that the global steel demand will grow 1.4% and would reach 1681.2 MT in 2019.

But the risks, rising trade tensions and volatile currency inflations are increasing uncertainty. Normalization of monetary policies in the US and EU could also influence the currencies of emerging economies.

The theme of this conference features "Belt and Road Initiative" invite global insiders to Macau to search for Cooperation either in China or alongside "Belt & Road" regions.

This conference is ideal for the international Ferroalloy insiders, Steel Plants to venture into China and explore new opportunities or cooperation, to build a platform for the trade of Mineral Ores, Ferroalloys & Steel and to take advantage of China favor policy.

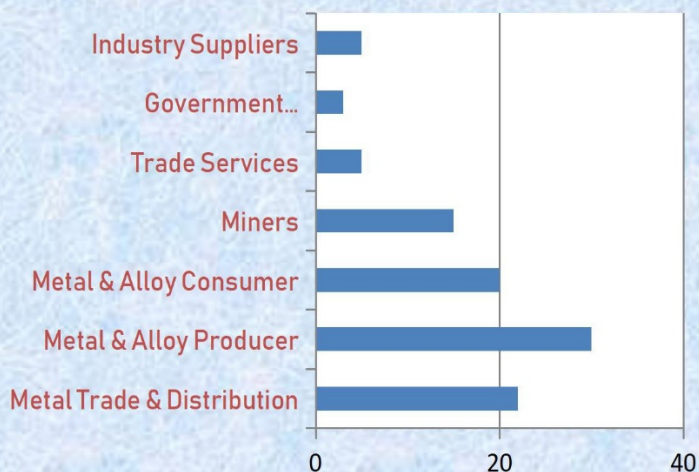

Being the responsible organizer, we understand the demand of the delegates, this conference includes keynote presentations, counterpart business, project matching, information exchange and projects cooperation may be arranged.

Ferro-Alloys.com sincerely invites all respectful professionals from Ferroalloys, Steel Mills, Coke, Ore producers and customers, equipment suppliers and others from the world to attend the conference on March 5-7, 2019 at Macau, China.

About Macau:

Previously Portuguese Colony, the beautiful city of Macao is located on the western side of the Pearl River estuary in East Asia. Known as the 'Vegas of China', Macau is indeed an epicenter of gambling and glitz. While luxury entertainment here is world-class, the city has much more to offer than that. The city has started international trade and cultural exchange activities at a very early age. It is in good geographical condition with natural deep water port. Macau becomes an important node in national Maritime Silk Road due to its transportation advantage. With the opening of Hong Kong-Zhuhai-Macao Bridge, it is connected with the world's liveliest economic region. The construction of the express will have profound significance of economy and society integration in Hong Kong, Macao and Zhuhai.
